

Client

PlayerClient

Representation of the actual player, the client object controls a character through the player's inputs. Set the character the player should control in the CharacterReference field.

ClientUI

This script handles the user interface on the player that would be different depending on the character, such as the ability on the character and cooldowns.